SILVERSHOT; OR, THE AUTOSSEE CHIEF.

A TALE OF BORDER LIFE, BY J. WITHERSPOON ERVIN.

It proposed by Messrs. GILBERT & DARR, proprietors of the Sumter Watchman, to publish in a permanent form, that most interesting Southern Tale, entitled—composed by our fellow-townsmen, JAC. W. ERVIN, Esq., and which appeared originally through the columns of our paper.

They are induced to this step by various considerations, among them are the following:— 1. The Tale itself is of the highest order as to literary merit, and as to varied exciting incidents from beginning to end.

2. It is intensely Southern in its character, locality and sentiment. 3. Its moral lessons rise vastly above what even may be found in the most approved, fictitious writings of the day. There is not an expression or allusion within its whole compass, which would grate upon the ear of piety or modesty. It is manly, generous and noble in all its teachings.

4. Those who have read it as if it came "out from the heart of the Mountains," call loudly for its publication in a permanent form. 5. It is a tale of the highest order as to literary merit, and as to varied exciting incidents from beginning to end.
